

The Richmond World Affairs Council is looking for Student Ambassadors

Do you have a passion for engaging our local community on international affairs and national security issues? Then join us!

We need your help to reach out to the public on foreign policy issues. With your help we can offer diverse audiences a forum to engage in dialogue pertaining to international relations with policy makers and thought-leaders, in order to deepen understanding, find solutions, and advance international cooperation.

Your responsibilities:

- Market our events, on campus and online, such as by distributing the flyer we provide.
- Find creative ways to advertise and encourage fellow students and faculty to participate in events.
- Serve as a liaison between your college and the Council. Maintain good relationships with faculty and keep them updated, identify campus partners (such as relevant student associations).
- Volunteer at our events when available, and help with the registration process.

This is a part-time unpaid internship. Student Ambassadors can coordinate duties within their own time and schedule. You can expect to gain skills in public outreach, marketing, event management, social media. You will also have the opportunity to network with academics and policy-makers.
